The heads of the European healthcare students' associations which are :

ECPTS :EUROPEAN CONFEDERATION FOR PHYSICAL THERAPY STUDENTS

EDSA: EUROPEAN DENTAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

EMSA: EUROPEAN MEDICAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

ENSA :EUROPEAN NURSING STUDENT ASSOCIATION

EPSA: EUROPEAN PHARMACEUTICAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Held their first Summit on Monday the 15th of December in the European Students' Union (ESU) office in Brussels, Belgium.

- EHSAS -

Members of the executive board of ECPTS attended the first interprofessional summit to consider and discuss the important issues of interprofessional collaboration and multidisciplinary approach. The vice treasurer (Yiannis Zervas) represented successfully ECPTS at the summit at Brussels with the help via skype of the president (Daniel Roberts). The presence of ECPTS at Brussels is a great step for the organisation itself and for physiotherapy in general .That is because physiotherapy still struggles to gain the acknowledgement it deserves within the healthcare system . We learnt a lot from the other organisations and we discussed thoroughly the outcomes of the surveys and new ideas .

THE SURVEYS

Two surveys were promoted from all five organisations until the end of December. One for students and one for representatives of each association . The participation of physiotherapy students was especially high despite the short notice and we would like to thank them for that. The final outcomes will be discussed further in the near future.

Some interesting tweets from the summit:

- 78% of students would enjoy more interprofessional opportunities
- 85% of students think healthcare professions should include an interprofessional component
- Courses with practical work in other healthcare fields are wished by almost 70% of the students.
- 95.5% students agree to the statement that they will "be working as a part of an interprofessional healthcare team in the future
